“EXECUTIVE CHEF KIRK WARNER LEAVING SAVOR RESTAURANT TO START PERSONAL CHEF BUSINESS.”

Kirk Warner, former executive chef at King Louie’s restaurant, has resigned as executive chef at Savor restaurant in the Central West End to start his own personal chef/private events company: “Kirk’s Traveling Kitchen.” An experienced personal chef and acclaimed executive chef, Kirk has been recognized in Food & Wine, USA Today, St. Louis Magazine, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Show Me St. Louis, among many others. After years working in some of the city’s premier restaurants, Kirk’s goal with the Traveling Kitchen is to work with individuals, families and businesses in the St. Louis area who love great food. By stepping back from the professional kitchen, Kirk aims to bring the craftsmanship and dedication of an exceptional restaurant into the home kitchen, with the emphasis on a more personal style of cooking — one which meets the high expectations of the client on a daily basis.
